IN MEMORIUM
COLONEL JOHN F. MCNULTY
CAPTAIN COMMANDING 1994 - 1995

COLONEL JOHN F. "Jack" MCNULTY distinguished 286th Commander of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Massachusetts died 24 August 2004. He was born 23 July 1935 in Brookline, Massachusetts. Raised and educated in Brookline, COL McNulty was an outstanding student athlete at Brookline High School excelling at football and track. He was recruited and attended the University of Massachusetts Amherst on a football scholarship. Following graduation he eventually settled in Wayland, Massachusetts. He served in the Massachusetts National Guard 1951-1952 then in the ROTC 1954-1955. In 1981 he accepted a commission in the Rhode Island State Militia as a Lieutenant Colonel rising to the rank of Colonel in 1984.

COL McNulty was enrolled in the Company on 8 September 1975. He served as Third Sergeant of Infantry 1982-9183 then served as Second Lieutenant, First Lieutenant and finally as Captain Commanding for the 1994-1995 Company year. As commander he took the Company to Australia and New Zealand.

COL McNulty built a nationally recognized insurance agency at Wayland and was the former owner of Jack McNulty Chevrolet of Beverly. He was an avid aviator logging 3000 hours as a pilot. He loved to travel and visited more than 100 countries over his lifetime. Active in the community he was a member of the Elks, the MSDA and a number of other organizations in addition to the AHAC.

Jack was survived by his wife Donna LeGacy McNulty; three sons Brian, Jeffrey and Marc a member of the Company. He left two daughters Karen McNulty and Joanne McLaughlin; two brothers Lawrence and Naimh; two sisters Alice MacGillivray and Marilyn Whalen and fifteen grandchildren.

THE 356TH JUNE DAY SERMON
Delivered at
St. Paul's Cathedral, Boston, Massachusetts
6 June 1994
by
Chaplain (BG) Robert M. Durkee

Since the time of Cain and Abel , men have fought each other to dusty death. Once, they did so in small skirmishes. In recent history, combat has taken to a stage worldwide. Always, the flower of manhood is sacrificed.

Rivers of blood have flowed from men's ancient rivalries, ambitions, jealousies and, too often, stupidities. Most often it is the young who are called upon to offer both life and limb. Tragically, the mistakes of the past are repeated, One of the most wasteful incidents of conflict in our nation's history took place at Gettysburg. There when Confederate troops in search of shoes encountered Federal cavalry, a four day battle ensued. The death toll for that unplanned engagement was equal to our total loss of American lives during the years of the Vietnam War.

In 1863, when President Lincoln went to dedicate a cemetery at Gettysburg, he was called upon to make a few appropriate remarks. The main address of two hours' duration had already been given by Edward Everett, a former governor of Massachusetts. Lincoln said "The world will little note not long remember what was said there and what our soldiers, North and South did there. They fought, they bled and they died."

Fifty years ago today, the greatest armada in history crossed the English Channel to land on the beaches of Normandy. Now two generations removed from that time, we need to recall those moments with the prayerful hope those painful events need never be repeated. Never again!

Many members of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company took part in the combat of World War II. For our Memorial Service I have asked some of them to permit me to make reference to them. Selected at random and without mention of rank or medals awarded, let me recall "what the world should note and long remember." In every instance, their recollections are a tribute to their fallen comrades.

Probably the first in our Company to land on Normandy on D-Day was Bob Murphy. Assigned to the Pathfinder Regiment of the 82nd Airborne Division, he landed in advance of General Ridgeway at Ste. Mer Eglise. The mission to get up a radar beam for the incoming gliders was quickly accomplished. However, in the fog and flooded plains, many men were lost. Fighting to secure the bridge at LaFiera, defended by the German Panzers, more than half his company were killed. Those going to Normandy later this month will see a street in Ste. Mer Eglise named "Rue LT Robert Murphy."

Edward Myllmaki was a pilot of a B-24 with the 15th Air Force. While flying over the Ploesti oil fields in Romania, and with seventeen combat missions to his credit, his plane was hit. After bailing out, he was taken prisoner of war. He escaped twice from the prison and was nearly successful, but in both instances he was recaptured and had to await liberation by the Allied Forces.

Rifleman George Murphy landed on Omaha Beach on D-Day and joined up with the 36th Armored Infantry Regiment in the St. Lo area. Wounded in action by a Tiger Tank in the Siegfried Line, he later returned from the hospital to see more action , moving across Germany to finish on V-E Day at the Elbe River.

Before D-Day. Les Crowley, on board an amphibious LST, had already participated in assault landings at Africa, Sicily and the coast of Italy. After a successful landing at Normandy, his ship was hit by a German E-Boat. He was afloat in the English Channel for nine hours before being rescued, and is one of 16 survivors from his ship alive today.

Ernie Clair landed at Anzio with the Fifth Army and later detached to the Italian Mountain Fighters in an all-out battle to drive the Nazis out of the Apennines. In particularly hazardous duty behind German lines, he was assigned to the Alpine Ski Corps to scout enemy gun emplacements, fighting all the while to keep Allied supply lines open.

Dan Deteso went ashore at Anzio with the 7th Infantry Regiment of the Third Division. On the last day of the breakout, his machine gun was hit by an enemy mortar. Dan lost his right leg only to realize the rest of his crew were killed. He remembers the ecumenical prayer in the hospital for "the guys who never made it off the beach."

Al Brox was a flight instructor and commander of a PBY. Flying on submarine patrol and Air-Sea Rescue missions, he also served to protect allied ships in convoy.

Wendell Freeman served as an Intelligence Officer with the 97th Heavy Bombardment Group. While en route to England, his B-17 traveling from Goose Bay, Labrador, went down on an ice cap in Greenland. The thirteen men aboard scrambled for safety with temperatures reaching 20 degrees below zero at night. The crew managed to establish contact through a rigged up radio. Ten days later with the help of snowshoes dropped from the air, they were rescued on an open lake by a sea plane. As they flew away to safety, the ice on which they traveled ripped open and was swallowed by the lake.

Charlie McGillivary, Congressional Medal of Honor, volunteered to go behind enemy lines to seek out machine gun positions of the 17th Panzer Grenadier Division. He blasted the first machine gun nest with a grenade, picked up a sub-machine gun and pressed to within ten yards of another nest. He charged ahead to kill the Germans with successive blasts. Without hesitation, moving from tree to tree and seriously wounded, he took out a third machine gun position before moving on to the fourth emplacement which he destroyed with a grenade.

One of our members who had the rare privilege to see the big picture is Bob Sawtelle. He began his military career in the China, Burma, India Theater and after the close of the Burma Road he was moved to military convoy duty near the Caspian Sea. At the Teheran and Cairo Conferences, he chauffeured President Roosevelt and was in the presence of Churchill, Stalin and Chiang Kai-shek. After being injured in a reconnaissance vehicle, and while being returned to the States, his Liberty Ship was attacked off the coast of Gibralter by a German U-Boat. Manning a 3 inch cannon, he assisted in the submarine "kill" near the Spanish coast.

Members of our Company saw action in every theater, including the Pacific. John Cremens was the Naval Intelligence and Gunnery Officer in charge of transportation of the first B-29 ground troops in Saipan and Tennean. He was charged with the secrecy of rockets and PT boats equipped with radar. John served in the European, Caribbean and Pacific Theaters.

Jack Fitzgerald served 34 months overseas with the First Marine Division and commanded A Company of the First Tractor Battalion on Guadal canal. After participating in the invasion of Cape Gloucester, New Britain, he led a Battalion in the Battle of Peleiu, remembered by the motto "All gave some, some gave all."

Tom McGrimley served with the 20th Air Force on Tennean in the Marianas Islands, participating in 17 bombing missions over Japan as the navigator of a B-29.

With the U.S. Marines, Dick Jordan participated in many of the operations in the South Pacific, including the Solomon Islands and New Hebrides. He landed with General MacArthur and the 41st Army Division in the Philippines on the southernmost island of Mindanao and after four days fighting participated in the liberation of Zamboanga.

Jack Riley was a B-24 pilot assigned on various stateside locations as an instructor. In the Pacific, he served as the Command Pilot to the 5th Air Force, 43rd Bomb Group in such places as New Guinea, Biak, the Phillipines, Okinawa and Ie Shima. At the end of the war he was part of the Occupation Force of Japan.

Several members of our Company saw action on Okinawa. Bill Koughan's unit captured Yon Son Airfield. With the 802nd Engineer Aviation Battalion, he helped in the building of Kaneda AirBase. While doing so they were under constant Kamikaze attacks by day; Betty bombers at night."Operation Coronet" built at great cost of life, was completed on schedule to sustain B-29s for the contemplated invasion of Japan.

My good friend Rudy Ricci worked around the clock to keep up with the repairs in the ships that were hit while on picket duty. My own task was to be strapped into a 20mm gun. Although we were promised daily visits by Tokyo Rose, our ammunition ship was one of the few not detonated by the Kamikaze raids launched from Formosa.

Congressional Medal of Honor recipient George Street commanded the USS Tirante. Off the coast of Korea, he brought his submarine past several patrol boats, sending two torpedos to sink two enemy frigates, diving deep to escape a barrage of exploding depth charges.

Thaddeus Buczko served aboard the destroyer USS Bears, which participated in 8 Pacific sea strikes. On one engagement off the coast of Japan his ship was credited with sinking two Japanese vessels and damaging a third. His final action in the Kurile Islands records the last shot fired in the war.

Edward Keelan served with the US Navy on numerous convoys in the South Pacific. His last sea duty took him into Tokyo Bay for the surrender of the Japanese Military Forces.

Leo Lazo was a Boatswain's Mate aboard a Flag Ship that entered Tokyo Bay for the final Peace Signing.

These events which we recall from half a century past were best described in the words of Winston Churchill as "blood, sweat and tears." The remembrances shared here are intended as a tribute to those we knew in our youth who never came home after the war was over.

The endless Crosses and Stars of David on foreign soil and in our national cemeteries here at home are mute monuments to eager young lives prematurely struck down.

Today the world does note, and should long remember, our honored dead. But even more important, we are charged that this nation, indeed this world, in words of President Lincoln, "be called to a new birth of freedom."

Only that hope will serve as a just and lasting tribute to the 60 million souls who perished in the global holocaust - now five decades past. Whenever human rights are violated, whenever tyranny is allowed to take root, we dishonor our fallen heroes. As we stand on the threshold of a new millennium we can do nothing less than lift high the lamp of liberty. Pray God that it may bring justice for the oppressed, concordant among the nations, and a new birth of freedom for the whole human family.

At this time let me ask that all of our Veterans from World War II stand.

In memory of our fallen comrades, I will read the prayer offered by President Roosevelt in his radio broadcast to the nation at the time of the Invasion of Normandy.

"Almighty God, with Thy blessing, we shall prevail over the unholy forces of our enemy. Help us to conquer the apostles of greed and racial arrogance. Lead us to the saving of our country, and with our sister nations, into a world unity that shall restore peace. Thy will be done Almighty God."

357TH FALL FIELD DAY TOUR OF DUTY

Australia and New Zealand

Captain Commanding Jack McNulty led the Company to New Zealand and Australia for the 357th Fall Field Day Tour of Duty. The flight to and from the "Land Down Under" was long and grueling for some, but all participants weathered the journey in good condition.

The Company visited Queenstown and marveled at the sights of snow capped rugged mountains, beautiful fjords and verdant sheep pastures. Appropriate honors were rendered at ANZAC memorials honoring the brave Kiwis who fought in both world wars. Members had the opportunity to try their hand at sheep shearing, cow riding, some enjoyed golf and bungi jumping. There was opportunity to interact with members of the New Zealand armed forces.

The Australian tour included sight seeing in and around Sydney, boat tours, beach going and other fun activities in addition to doing appropriate honors at the appropriate war memorials. Recognition was given to the assistance of the Australian armed forces in the Vietnam War as well as the magnificent service of the Australians in both world wars.

All in all it was a very pleasant and meaningful Fall Tour to two beautiful countries, both great friends to the United States.
